Description

Dr. David Smith and his associates at the VA San Diego Healthcare System are conducting a research study to investigate if the study drug Ramipril can help prevent worsening of lung function and death associated with COVID-19 (novel coronavirus) infections.

Requirements

18 years old

You may participate in this study if you have a confirmed diagnosis of COVID-19 and have been admitted to the emergency department or hospitalized

Benefits

Your disease may or may not get better from taking part in this study. It is hoped that Ramipril may provide relief of, or lessening of, the signs and symptoms of disease; however, such benefit cannot be guaranteed. In this study you may get placebo which means you may not be taking the active study drug
